Dear Dr LI,

Timely Application for Renewal of Practising Certificate

The annual practising certificates of doctors for the year 2016 will expire on 31 December 2016. On behalf of the Medical Council of Hong Kong (“the Council”), I am writing to enlist the support of the Hong Kong Academy of Medicine (“HKAM”) in reminding your members to make timely application for renewal of their annual practising certificates for the year 2017 if they will be practising beyond the said expiry date.

According to Section 20A(1) of the Medical Registration Ordinance, a registered medical practitioner shall not practise medicine, surgery or midwifery in Hong Kong, or any branch of medicine or surgery in Hong Kong, unless he is the holder of a practising certificate which is then in force. By a notification letter of 30 September 2016 to all individual doctors, the Council has reminded doctors to make timely application for renewal of the practising certificates, and announced that for applications made by 11 November 2016, the practising certificates would be issued by 31 December 2016 as far as possible. Besides, the Council has advised doctors that under section 19(1)(b) of the Medical Registration Ordinance, the Council may order the removal from the General Register of the name of any person who has not, before 30 June of a year, obtained his practising certificate for that year. The Council will issue a postal reminder to all doctors again in November 2016.

On top of the above effort, the Council would like to enlist the support of HKAM, being a major medical institution, in reminding your members of the importance of timely application for renewal of practising certificates.

We believe that your kind assistance will surely enhance the awareness of your members towards their professional obligation in this area.

Yours sincerely,
